DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1 to 3 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Chiuro et al (Article from Science Direct).

The Chiuro et al reference teaches a zinc oxide nanowire array, note entire reference. A substrate is placed into a chamber and a layer of buffer material is deposited onto the substrate. The material can be a metal like copper or can be several layers. Onto top of this, a layer of zinc oxide is deposited. The zinc oxide nanowires then grow on the zinc oxide layer, pages 2 and 3. The sole difference between the instant claims and the prior art is the size of the nanowires. However, in the absence of unexpected results, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to determine through routine experimentation the optimum, operable nanowire size in the Chiou et al reference in order to create the specific light-emitting device, as size affects the properties of the device.

Claims 5 to 7 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 9 to 21 are allowed over the art of record.

Response to Applicants' Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed July 27, 2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicants' argument concerning the Chiou et al reference is noted. However, the claims are open language claims, note the term "comprising". The claims further require only a single layer of a nitride. The Chiou et al reference does teach a single layer of a nitride between the substrate and the nanowires. This reads on the instant claims. Since the claims are open language, the addition of a metal layer is encompassed in the instant claims. Therefore, the Chiou et al reference does in fact render the instant claims obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
